GENERAL ADMISSION FLOOR / RESERVED SEATING

Don't tell rock band 3 Doors Down you can't go home again.

Formed in Escatawpa, Mississippi, the resilient fivesome has blazed a trail as the quintessential rock band, attaining massive mainstream success but somehow never losing that small town identity that has branded them rock's truest underdogs. They've reigned as a genuine force of nature, boasting rock n' roll's most earnest work ethic – 'The thoroughly modern American band' - crows Billboard, one part swagger/one part tireless road warriors, brandishing an arsenal of battle-tested radio gems like their breakthrough anthem, "Kryptonite." Unleashed at the beginning of the decade, the song seemed to capture the band's heroic climb and steadfast refusal to be pigeonholed as just another rock band.

Now, on the cusp of releasing their first self-titled album (their fourth studio album and what some have appraised as 'their most definitive,') the group weighs in on what it took to refresh their innate sense of 'place' and deliver what just might be their masterwork - a blistering, both-barrels approach etched in the grain of brand new hits like the wistful wakeup call of "It's Not My Time," the contemplative "Pages," and the stem-winding lure of "Train," among others.

3 Doors Down's decade-plus ascension (the original group formed in '95) you realize they've earned a wall-full of accolades that are also firmly cemented into rock's record books: 13 million albums sold, 3 multi-platinum albums (their first album, 2000's The Better Life sold an astounding 6 million copies, with their 2002 follow-up, Away From The Sun selling 4 million) six #1 hits, multiple Billboard and other awards, and a relentless road itinerary that saw them hit 32 countries in a six year roll-up with 'nary a break in between. You don't rack up that kind of 'hall-of-fame' mileage without putting a fair share of dents in the armor.

Don't miss 3 Doors Down with special guests at Credit Union Centre August 8, 2008!
